

WHAT A SCOUT SHOULD BRING TO CAMP

Equipment means those items necessary for living, comfort, and convenience. Below is a suggested list for Scouts to take to camp with them. Double check this list carefully and add what you feel is necessary from your own experience.

PERSONAL GEAR

Pack with frame (optional)
Duffel bag or second pack
Medical Form (copy, not original)
Boy Scout Handbook
Pocketknife (NO SHEATH KNIVES)
Camera with film (optional)
Flashlight with extra batteries
Sewing kit
Compass
Canteen
Toiletries - (Soap, comb, mirror, toothbrush, toothpaste, etc.)
Washcloth and towel
Mess kit (if needed for MB activities)
Musical Instrument (bugle, harmonica, etc) -
Plastic drop cloth for tent floor
Nose plugs and/or ear plugs
Recreational equipment
Personal First Aid Kit for hike

CLOTHING

Scout Uniform (Summer recommended)
Shirt, shorts, socks, belt, and hat. (Winter uniform is OK)
Raincoat or poncho, rain hat is optional.
Pajamas
Blue jeans or extra old pants.
Sturdy shoes or boots for hiking
Second pair of shoes
Jacket, sweatshirt and/or sweater
Extra underwear
Extra socks or stockings
Swim suit and towel

BEDDING

ADDITIONAL ITEMS: Write in the area below any items suggested by your scoutmaster.

REMEMBER: Mark all clothing and equipment with your name and troop number.

REMEMBER: Plan your clothing allowance for a six-day stay. Bring an appropriate amount of extra underwear and socks. If planning is inadequate, you may have to wash clothing (no washing facilities are provided by the camp).

REMEMBER: Axes and hatchets are limited to troop or patrol equipment only.

REMEMBER: Although tennis shoes are adequate within camp, they are not adequate for hiking outside camp boundaries. Additionally, experience shows that most sprained ankles occur when Scouts wear improperly laced shoes.

REMEMBER: Personal equipment must be transported by the Scout from the parking lot to the campsite. Select your camping equipment accordingly.
